Eight Ways You Can Benefit From Choosing Fisher Investments

1. Your Portfolio Will Be Built to Suit Your Needs
   Different investors have different needs. Many simply want their assets to grow over time. Some rely on their investments for cash flow. Others don’t want or need exposure to specific industries or companies. Your portfolio recommendation is based on your specific needs. Analyzing your time horizon, investment objectives and other factors specific to you is the first step. Thoroughly understanding your goals helps ensure you are comfortable with the plan for your investments.

2. You’ll Receive High-Touch Client Service to Help Keep You Educated and Comfortable
   You’ll get proactive service from your personal Investment Counselor who knows you and keeps you up-to-date on your portfolio. You’ll hear from us regularly, not because there’s some new product to sell, but because consistent communication is important to help you remain comfortable with your investment strategy.

3. You’ll Work With a Stable Management Team at a Well-Established Firm
   Once your investing goals are understood, your portfolio strategy will be managed by the Investment Policy Committee, whose members have over 100 years of combined industry experience. You can feel comfortable knowing Fisher Investments has also been “vetted” by over 150 large institutional clients and recognized by well-known, independent sources.

4. You’ll Get a Comprehensive and Disciplined Approach to Your Investment Strategy
   You deserve a manager who offers more than just stock picking. At Fisher Investments, your portfolio is managed using a comprehensive approach to analyzing global markets, identifying the most attractive investment categories, then choosing individual stocks, bonds or other securities for your portfolio. Taking time to educate you about the approach allows you to take comfort you’re not investing in a “black box.”
5. Your Portfolio Can Benefit From a Global Approach to Investing

Many American investors tend to focus predominantly on US securities. However, the US only makes up about half of the value of the world stock market. Today, some of the world’s largest, fastest-growing and best-run companies are located outside US borders. By investing globally, you can increase diversification while taking advantage of opportunities many money managers miss.

6. Your Portfolio Can Benefit From a Flexible Approach to Investing

Many professional investment advisers have one particular style of investing. For example, some are “growth” investors, others are “value” investors and some may invest only in one particular type of stock. That kind of specialization could impact your portfolio returns when the different styles fall in and out of favor. Fisher Investments offers a flexible approach, meaning your portfolio strategy can be adjusted based on our forward-looking views of market conditions. If we expect shares of large companies to do better than smaller ones, bigger firms will be emphasized in your portfolio. If we believe it’s more appropriate to be in bonds or cash, your portfolio will be invested in those asset classes.

7. Your Portfolio Can Benefit From Both Bull and Bear Market Tactics

Your asset allocation—or mix of stocks, bonds, cash or other securities—will depend on your investment objectives as well as our forward-looking market views. This asset mix may not always be static. For example, we might de-emphasize stocks or other securities and instead utilize bonds and/or cash in an effort to mitigate the impact of falling stock prices if we forecast a bear market. No money manager is correct every time, including Fisher Investments, but we believe the lessons learned managing investments through many market cycles provide us invaluable insight. Just as important, we’re here to counsel you during good times and bad.

8. You’ll Have Competitive, Transparent Fees Aligned to Your Interests

The Fisher Investments fee structure is straightforward: you’ll pay 1.0% to 1.5% annually based on the size of your accounts. Unlike with many brokers, our incentive is not to “churn” your account since we don’t earn commissions on trades. Basing fees on the amount of assets managed aligns the firm’s incentives with your interests. In other words, if you do better, we do better.
1. Your Portfolio Will Be Built to Suit Your Needs

Much like a tailor who alters the hem, sleeve and collar of a suit to fit your proportions, we consider a variety of factors to create a portfolio tailored to your needs.

Portfolio Evaluation and Account Personalization

Understanding your financial picture is the first step in constructing a portfolio to meet your investment objectives. Some of the factors considered when choosing the optimal long-term investment strategy and near-term tactics for your portfolio may include:

- Investment Objectives: Is your primary goal for your portfolio to target long-term growth? To provide a certain level of cash flow? Some combination?

- Your Time Horizon: How long do you expect or need your money to be working toward your objectives?

- Cash Flow Requirements: How should your portfolio be managed to accommodate your cash flow needs, should you have them?

- Outside Income and Assets: How are your outside assets positioned and how does your managed account fit into your overall net worth? Do you receive cash flow from sources other than your portfolio?

- Capital Gains: How can we address the impact of capital gains taxes?*

- Restrictions or Customizations: What other personal needs or desires should we consider?

- Risk Tolerance: Are you comfortable with our recommendation and is it suited to your stated investment objectives and time horizon for your portfolio?

4. You’ll Get a Comprehensive and Disciplined Approach to Your Investment Strategy

You Deserve More Than Just Stock Picking

As an investor, you can choose from over 11,000 publicly traded US stocks. The list grows to more than 60,000 stocks when thinking globally. If you include fixed income assets like bonds, there are millions of unique securities to choose from.* With so many options available, how can you be sure you have the best possible portfolio if your investment adviser simply focuses on just stock picking?

To address the daunting task of selecting from this vast universe, Fisher Investments uses a top-down investment approach. That means analyzing factors such as the economic environment, political developments and investor sentiment trends before considering buying a stock. These high-level factors are by some measures far more important when it comes to your portfolio’s success than factors specific to individual stocks and bonds.

What Drives Investment Returns?

• We believe approximately 70% of long-term portfolio returns are a result of asset allocation, or whether you own stocks, bonds, cash or other assets. So our focus is first on the asset allocation decision, analyzing how factors like the economy, politics and investor sentiment are likely to impact different asset classes.

• Next are the decisions related to the type of investments within asset classes. If the environment for stocks looks favorable, should you own shares of small companies or large companies? Growth or value stocks? Foreign or domestic? If fixed income investments seem preferable, are government, corporate or municipal bonds best? What credit quality and duration? In our view, this sub-asset allocation decision accounts for about 20% of relative returns.

• Finally, we believe about 10% of relative return not already accounted for by higher level factors is determined by which individual securities make up your portfolio.

*Source: Bloomberg, as of 02/12/2016.
We believe about 70% of a portfolio’s return over time can be attributed to asset allocation.*

We believe sub-asset allocation within stocks and bonds contributes approximately 20% to portfolio return.*

We believe the selection of specific stocks, bonds or other types of securities contributes about 10% to portfolio return.*

*Forward-looking return attribution is an approximation intended for illustrative purposes and should not be considered a forecast of future returns or return attribution. No guarantee is made regarding the accuracy of any market forecasts or the success of any investment strategy.
5. Your Portfolio Can Benefit From a Global Approach to Investing

Why Is Global Investing Important?

Over the past 20 years, the US has been in the top-five performing stock markets only five times. US investments are an important part of a global portfolio, but ignoring foreign markets can mean missing out on many opportunities. As a client, you can benefit from our extensive global investing experience, research capabilities and access to information that allow us to find investment opportunities for you all over the world.

The best-performing country often changes. The US has not been the #1 stock market in any of the past 20 years.

Another Reason Global Investing Can Be Important

America’s economy and capital markets are the biggest in the world, but a portfolio with only US stocks misses out on important opportunities. America represents a little over 50% of the value of global stocks and less than 25% of the global economy.

6. Your Portfolio Can Benefit From a Flexible Approach to Investing

Unlike money managers who focus on narrow investment categories like individual countries, regions or sectors, you can capitalize on opportunities available in all areas of global markets. That’s because we focus on what we believe are the most appropriate investment options based on our forward-looking views of market conditions, while maintaining the risk-reducing benefits of diversification.

7. Your Portfolio Can Benefit From Having Both Bull and Bear Market Tactics

Ken Fisher’s Decades-Long History of Market Calls*

Virtually all investors experience up and down markets throughout their investing lifetimes. Your investment adviser needs to be able to navigate both. No one can do this perfectly, but few investment professionals have a public history of stock market calls as long as Ken Fisher’s. Ken has been making forecasts in his “Portfolio Strategy” column in Forbes magazine for over 30 years. Many of Ken’s high-profile market calls have been documented in the book The Making of a Market Guru: Forbes Presents 25 Years of Ken Fisher (Wiley; May 2010).

No money manager is correct every time, including Fisher Investments. But Ken and the Investment Policy Committee have a long history of navigating clients’ portfolios through good times and bad and can apply the lessons they’ve learned over many market cycles to your portfolio in the future.

8. You’ll Have Competitive, Transparent Fees Aligned to Your Interests

The Fisher Investments Fee Structure Is Straightforward

Your fees are based on the amount of assets managed, which aligns our incentives with yours—when you do well, we do well. While our clients do pay transaction charges directly to a custodian or broker-dealer for trades, Fisher Investment doesn’t earn these commissions, so our incentive is not to “churn” your account.
